2018 GLOBAL PHILANTHROPY GUIDE

Washington State Organizations Responding to Humanitarian Crises and Natural Disasters
in Developing Countries

A migrant is pulled aboard a responder rescue ship after being saved from an overcrowded rubber dinghy in the Mediterranean Sea.

Welcome to the 2018 Global Philanthropy Guide

This year's Global Philanthropy Guide has been designed to connect you with high-impact, nonprofit organizations based in Washington state that are responding to urgent humanitarian crises in the developing world. War, conflict, natural disasters, and dramatic shifts in weather patterns have all contributed to unprecedented humanitarian needs globally. From 2003 to 2013, natural disasters led to the deaths of more than 1.1 million people, caused $1.5 trillion in damage, and affected the lives of more than two billion people globally. The number of people forcibly displaced from their homes topped 65.6 million in 2016, more than the aftermath of World War II. Most concerning, famine continues to threaten the lives of 20 million people in four countries in East Africa and Yemen.

Despite these alarming figures, humanitarian organizations have been responding rapidly and effectively in order to save millions of lives, while also addressing the root causes of vulnerability that leave communities and countries at risk year after year. Responding organizations span from large international nonprofits to smaller in-country partners that often coordinate relief and development service delivery to reach the most marginalized populations.

When we think about the most effective, comprehensive ways to respond to crises, we consider the following four levels of humanitarian emergency response:

- The immediate crisis response requires intense, rapid coordination by many humanitarian organizations in order to save lives. This often takes the form of emergency medical attention and distributing large amounts of food, water, temporary shelter, and hygiene kits.
- The intermediate crisis response requires aid workers to continue maintaining access to lifesaving food, water and medical care, but it is also a turning point in the recovery process, as longer term shelter, sanitation, utility and medical service systems are evaluated.

A class of girls from Mercy Corps' youth safe space program walks through Azraq refugee camp in Jordan.

- The long-term crisis response engages communities thoughtfully in rebuilding local economies and infrastructure.
- And finally, preparedness and mitigation efforts help reduce the risk of loss of life and livelihoods in future disasters. This level of response often includes working with national governments to design, fund, and implement disaster warning systems, as well as working within communities to reduce their exposure to known hazards and to increase their ability to withstand and recover from future disasters.

As you consider your philanthropic priorities, please use the Global Philanthropy Guide to learn more about ways you can respond, whether you are just beginning or growing your global giving. The organizations profiled in this guide are Global Washington members, and were selected through a committee process by both of our organizations. We encourage you to browse the full directory of GlobalWA members at the end of the guide, and explore the extraordinary work they are doing to save and improve peoples' lives globally.

On behalf of Global Washington and Seattle Foundation, we want to thank you for your generous philanthropic support.

Who we are

Global Washington supports the global development community in Washington state that is working to create a healthier and more equitable world. We promote our members, bring them together to spark new ideas and partnerships, and build a network of leaders improving lives around the world. We aim to change the world for the better by strengthening Washington state's vibrant global development community and increasing the impact of our members to improve lives in poor countries.

With over 160 members, including some of the world's most respected companies, nonprofit organizations, academic institutions and foundations, Global Washington provides a platform to share knowledge, partner, and overcome challenges. We are building a dynamic network of stakeholders from which to draw expertise, exchange ideas, and form innovative collaborations.

Seattle Foundation ignites powerful, rewarding philanthropy to make Greater Seattle a stronger, more vibrant community for all. Focused on creating equity and opportunity, our goal as a community foundation is to simplify giving and strengthen the impact of philanthropy for the more than 1,200 individuals, families, businesses, and nonprofits we serve. We provide deep community insights, powerful civic leadership, effective philanthropic advising and judicious stewardship of assets in support of our mission. As the community's foundation, we appreciate and value the broad range of definitions our philanthropists hold for the word "community." From those who choose to work very locally, to others who see themselves as citizens of the world, Seattle Foundation supports strategic investment in the places our philanthropists prioritize.

Seattle Foundation partners with our affiliate, Seattle International Foundation, in order to provide effective advising, education and experiential learning for our philanthropists interested in making a difference around the world.

Local Volunteers, Global Impact.

Each year, disasters and crises devastate millions of people. As part of the world's largest humanitarian network, Red Cross teams provide relief and hope in nearly every corner of the globe. From Latin America and Africa, to Asia and Europe, the American Red Cross helps people in some of the world's most at-risk communities. This work is powered by the generosity of volunteers and donors. Volunteers often come from the communities they serve, making us powerful changemakers. Together, Red Cross and Red Crescent teams not only respond to emergencies—such as earthquakes, droughts, and health epidemics—but also help neighborhoods prepare for future disasters and ensure that children receive the vaccines they need to stay healthy.

Impact

The American Red Cross responds to an emergency every 8 minutes in the U.S. We go wherever we're needed, so people can have clean water, safe shelter and hot meals when they need them.

- Globally, 1 in 25 people is helped by the Red Cross/Red Crescent each year
- More than 2 billion children have been vaccinated against measles and rubella since 2001.
- 29 million people in at-risk communities around the world have literally been put on the map through the Red Cross "Missing Maps" project.
- Nationally, we respond to 64,000 disasters annually
- Regionally, 3,000 volunteers provide disaster assistance to a family every 6 hours

Construction for Change

Construction for Change (CfC) empowers developing communities by building infrastructure in partnership with strategically-positioned organizations, promoting long-term well-being.

CfC's approach to building ensures high-quality, sustainable, and environmentally-sound facilities, as well as promoting the transfer of industry standards and best practices. Each of CfC's buildings is designed to ensure it can withstand not only normal regional weather patterns, but also severe environmental challenges, including a changing climate and seismic activity. CfC's construction professionals operate onsite to employ local workers and source local materials, allowing for major investment in regional economies. CfC's buildings enhance the transformational work of organizations that promote change through education, healthcare and economic development. CfC's current health initiative, the 30/30 Project, provides construction grants for selected projects.

Impact

Since 2007, Construction for Change has completed 34 structures, including schools, hospitals, and health clinics, in 12 countries on 4 continents, impacting over 1 million people. The organization designs each building to withstand significant seismic activity and other natural hazards, while keeping the needs of the partner and local community in mind. Construction for Change also supports communities by partnering for long-term rebuilding efforts after disasters, such as the 2015 earthquake in Nepal. Its buildings are constructed to the highest quality standards, with the lowest possible operating costs.

International Rescue Committee

IRC Seattle's program for senior refugees aims to reduce isolationism and loneliness, and improve health, wellbeing, and community integration. Activities include outings and picnics in the community garden with music.

© Hannah Letinich/IRC

The International Rescue Committee (IRC) helps people whose lives and livelihoods are shattered by conflict and disaster to survive, recover, and gain control of their future.

IRC teams provide health, infrastructure, learning, and economic support to people in more than 40 countries worldwide. IRC works, not just with refugees and people displaced within their countries, but also with host communities that support those who flee, and people affected by crisis in their own communities. The IRC also provides support to thousands of refugees resettling in 27 U.S. cities each year and helps refugee families and survivors of human trafficking, as they build the resources and skills needed to thrive in their new communities.

Impact

In 2016, more than 26 million people benefited from IRC programs and those of its partner organizations. In the U.S., the IRC helped resettle 13,400 newly arrived refugees and provided support to tens of thousands of additional families through ongoing services. Success at the IRC is all about making a real difference in people's lives in the areas of safety, health, economic well-being, education, and power, while narrowing the gender gap in each of these areas.

Medical Teams International

A Medical Teams International health worker in Uganda measures a child's arm to assess malnutrition.

Boldly breaking barriers to health to restore wholeness in a hurting world.

Medical Teams International is a Christian, global humanitarian relief organization, providing healing to people in crisis. Founded in 1979, Medical Teams International mobilizes urgently needed medical supplies and health care professionals to people affected by disaster and conflict around the world. Last year, Medical Teams International provided health care and supplies for 2.9 million people in 27 countries, including more than 1 million refugees worldwide.

Today, there are more than 65 million refugees and displaced people in the world. Most of them are women and children who have experienced unimaginable atrocities, and many desperately need loving health care.

With help from dedicated partners and donors, Medical Teams International acts to send lifesaving medical teams and supplies to help refugees and disaster survivors—one precious life at a time.

Impact

- In Uganda, Medical Teams International provides health screenings and health care for more than 600,000 South Sudanese refugees who have escaped from extreme war, genocide, and famine.
- In Lebanon, Medical Teams International provides medical and dental care for Syrian refugees who are struggling to survive in crowded settlements.
- In Bangladesh, more than 500,000 Rohingya refugees have fled from horrific violence in Myanmar and are living in informal settlements. Medical Teams International is providing urgently needed health care and hygiene services to save lives and prevent the spread of deadly disease.

Mercy Corps

Fatima, 11, is a Syrian refugee in Jordan's Azraq refugee camp. Mercy Corps helps young refugees reclaim their childhoods through youth centers, where they can cope with stress, continue learning and move toward the brighter future they deserve.

In disaster and in hardship, Mercy Corps is there—before, during or after an emergency.

Mercy Corps takes a comprehensive approach to every challenge, looking for solutions that empower people to survive crises, build better lives and transform their communities for good.

In more than 40 countries around the world, Mercy Corps works directly with leaders and changemakers on the ground—focusing especially on women and young people—to build local strength and stability.

Mercy Corps helps people meet their urgent needs by providing assistance after disasters and delivering bold solutions to help spark, scale and sustain change.

Because stronger communities mean a more peaceful world.

Impact

Mercy Corps has responded to almost every major emergency over the past 20 years. In 2016, Mercy Corps' emergency response met the urgent needs of 1.8 million people inside Syria. Its emergency interventions are impacting as many as 780,000 people facing hunger across the Horn of Africa and Yemen. Mercy Corps' focus is not only on immediate emergency response, but also on building long-term solutions by connecting communities to the vital resources that bridge the gap between relief and recovery.

SIGN Fracture Care International

Sor Sre Nichuf, 20, lives in rural Cambodia and helps her parents farm rice and vegetables. She was injured in a motorbike accident, and SIGN Surgery enabled her to quickly heal so she could walk and work to support her family.

SIGN builds orthopedic surgical capacity in developing countries, so local surgeons can treat and heal impoverished people who have fractured bones.

SIGN provides education for surgeons and equips them with the tools they need to perform trauma surgery in austere operating rooms. SIGN designs, manufactures, and donates the orthopedic implants and instruments so they can be used at no cost to the patient. It equips local surgeons to care for patients in trauma from traffic accidents. In addition, it prepares them to deal with injuries following natural disasters and conflict situations.

Impact

Since 1999, 5,000 SIGN surgeons have performed healing surgery for more than 200,000 patients. SIGN surgeons operate in 325 hospitals in 50 developing countries. SIGN moves into areas at high risk for natural disasters or conflict like Afghanistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, and South Sudan. The organization builds local capacity so that when a disaster strikes or conflicts arise, local experts with appropriate equipment are already in place. SIGN always sends additional implants and instruments when needed and only sends volunteer surgeons from the U.S. at the local surgeons' request.

Splash

Community members in Nepal use safe water stations set up by Splash after the 2015 earthquake.

Splash is a nonprofit organization founded in 2007, implementing water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) solutions for children in urban Asia and Africa. The organization works in some of the fastest-growing cities in the world, where it focuses on child-serving institutions, including schools, orphanages, shelters, and hospitals, to help kids lead healthier lives. Splash's five-year goal is to reach 100 percent of government schools in Addis Ababa (Ethiopia), Kathmandu (Nepal), and Kolkata (India), benefitting 1 million children.

Using design innovation, Splash ensures that its WASH hardware (including water filtration systems, drinking and handwashing stations, and sanitation infrastructure) can stand up to the pressures of population growth, climate change, and natural disasters. To ensure long-term resilience, Splash also integrates measures like rainwater harvesting, water storage, and water conservation.

Impact

Splash has completed over 1,600 projects across eight countries in Asia and Africa (Bangladesh, Cambodia, China, Ethiopia, India, Nepal, Vietnam and Thailand), servicing 400,000 children. Following the May 2008 earthquake in China, Splash delivered clean water to 50,000 people by installing water filtration systems in schools and displacement camps. In 2015, when a catastrophic earthquake struck Nepal, over 90 percent of Splash water projects were still functional and served as community hubs for water access and meal preparation.

World Relief Seattle

It doesn't take long for refugees to begin to give back to their community, extending hospitality more generously than they have received it. Here, a refugee mother shares a homemade Iraqi treat.

© Sean Sheridan for World Relief Seattle

Less than one percent of the world's 22 million refugees ever have the chance to begin a new life in the United States. For refugees and other vulnerable immigrants arriving in Western Washington, World Relief Seattle (WRS) works to welcome, root, and empower them from the day of their arrival through citizenship. WRS provides critical welcome services, including:

- Housing
- English training
- Navigation of essential systems like health care and schools

WRS cultivates refugees' and immigrants' enormous resiliency, courage, and entrepreneurial spirit through:

- Employment services
- Economic empowerment programs

WRS also has an immigration legal clinic and offers services for the next generation. The organization is committed to seeing every refugee and vulnerable immigrant in Western Washington welcomed by, rooted in, and empowered by community.

Impact

Since 1979, World Relief Seattle has welcomed more than 30,000 refugees from over 50 countries to Western Washington. As Washington's largest resettlement agency, WRS resettled 1,135 of the 3,907 refugees who arrived in the state in 2016.

In 2016, 320 refugees were placed in jobs at 110 local companies; 166 students attended WRS English classes; 216 people gained citizenship through WRS's legal services clinic; and 450 volunteers contributed 25,000 hours of their time to support their refugee and immigrant neighbors.
