2016 GLOBAL PHILANTHROPY GUIDE

WASHINGTON STATE ORGANIZATIONS
IMPROVING LIVES IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES

Welcome to the 2016 Global Philanthropy Guide

Welcome to the 2016 Global Philanthropy Guide, your trusted resource for connecting with organizations that are improving the lives of people around the world. This year, the guide is being published by Global Washington, with support from Seattle International Foundation and Seattle Foundation, representing a new partnership to promote global philanthropy in Washington state. This unique partnership will strengthen and amplify the work of world-class non-profit organizations that are based in our community and doing work in developing countries.

The combined effort of non-profits in our state add up to enormous global impact.

By reducing poverty, increasing access to health care and education, protecting the environment, promoting rule of law and building resilient economies, Washington state organizations are creating a more equitable, healthier and prosperous world.

You can support this important work. This guide features profiles on select organizations that were funded in 2015–2016 through Seattle International Foundation and Seattle Foundation’s inaugural Global GiveTogether program, a collective giving effort engaging Foundation philanthropists. We hope this list of vetted non-profit organizations is helpful in creating effective strategies for giving, and thinking about the impact philanthropists in our community can make around the globe. Also included is a full directory of Global Washington member organizations to give the full depth and breadth of the global development work coming out of our state.

As you consider your philanthropic priorities, please use this guide to learn more and start or grow your international giving. You can be confident that your investment will go directly to a non-profit based in Washington state that is making a difference in the lives of people in developing countries. We are proud of what our community contributes to the world, and we are excited about effective non-profits and engaged philanthropists combining efforts to make our global community a stronger, more vibrant place for all.

On behalf of Global Washington, Seattle International Foundation and Seattle Foundation, we thank you for the opportunity to support you in your philanthropy.

CONSTRUCTION FOR CHANGE

Construction for Change (CfC) designs and builds efficient and sustainable infrastructure that meets the needs of communities and helps to alleviate poverty in the world's most under-resourced areas. Pro bono architects and engineers assess the local environment in creating their designs, while volunteer project managers live in the community for the duration of the project, overseeing all aspects of the work. Construction workers are hired from the community, and project managers facilitate opportunities for the construction employees to learn new skills and trades during the project. Additionally, all building materials are sourced locally to create spillover effects for the regional economy. On a case by case basis, CfC may even provide grants to cover the cost of construction materials, labor and other building-related costs.

GUATEMALA VILLAGE HEALTH

Guatemala Village Health (GVH) develops and implements programs that empower communities to improve health “one village at a time.” Their work focuses on three interdependent areas: health, education and economic development. To improve health directly, GVH provides ongoing primary care services and health education combined with health improvement programs in maternal health, child nutrition, preventive dentistry, and chronic disease management. Lay health workers trained by GVH in conjunction with the Ministry of Health implement these programs in their villages. GVH supports education with onsite health workers in schools who conduct health education and screening. They offer scholarships for high school and healthcare professional training for rural Guatemalans. Finally, GVH is developing microfinance programs for home garden and livestock projects to support economic development and nutrition.

Impact

Primary clinical care provided by GVH directly impacts 20 villages with over 5,000 villagers. Ongoing health improvement programs include: Healthy Mothers/Babies serving 3,000 women and girls with support for reproductive health from contraception to empowerment; Alternatives to Violence Project training for 31 village facilitators; Preventive Dentistry for 1,500 students; collaborative health worker training with the Ministry of Health for 17 lay midwives and this year 32 health promoters. The latest GVH pilot project will provide 100 children with Guatemalan produced ManiPlus food supplements.

LANDESA

The vast majority of the world's poorest people share three common traits: they live in rural areas, they rely on agriculture to survive, and they do not have legal control over the land on which they depend. Landesa partners with governments and organizations in developing regions, particularly China, India, Myanmar, and sub-Saharan African countries, to develop and implement land policies, laws, and programs that strengthen land rights of these rural poor. With a special emphasis on women's land rights, Landesa works to ensure the globe's poorest families have secure rights over the land they till. With secure rights to land, research has shown that these families invest in their land and reap the benefits—improved nutrition, health, and education—for generations.

Impact

For nearly five decades, Landesa has worked in over 50 countries to secure land rights for more than 115 million of the world's poorest families. In 2014, 2.3 million women and men gained more secure rights to their own plot of land through Landesa's work.

Landesa was awarded the 2015 Hilton Humanitarian Prize, the largest humanitarian prize in the world, in recognition of Landesa's extraordinary contributions to alleviating human suffering.

LITERACY BRIDGE

Founded in 2007, Literacy Bridge is a nonprofit organization providing life-saving agriculture and health knowledge to the most rural villages in the world. They developed the Talking Book, a specially designed audio computer that helps educate and empower the world's poorest families by providing on-demand and locally relevant knowledge. Literacy Bridge partners with local and international experts to produce and record timely and practical audio lessons on key health practices and sustainable farming methods. The messages (in the form of interviews, songs and dramas) are then loaded on to Talking Books and distributed to households and groups within each village.

Impact

Through dynamic partnerships with the Seattle International Foundation, UNICEF, and CARE, Literacy Bridge has expanded its Talking Book program to nearly 250,000 individuals in Northern Ghana. Their most recent study found that people with access to health messages on Talking Books were 50% more likely to use bed nets and 50% more likely to wash their hands with soap. With over 5 million farmers in Ghana, 2015's Best Soybean Farmer went to a female Talking Book user.
